B105 – Coral/Coral

Born – 8th March 2006 at 3.22 pm

Dear Friends,

I am very pleased to announce the birth of the Archangel Azreal at 3.22 pm today here in Tetford.

It was a very protracted birth unlike other bottles. In fact, it really began yesterday which was the celebration of my birth. The process started in the afternoon, went on through the night and continued today, culminating in the birth this afternoon.

You will see that the theme of the opalescent or iridescent as in Chamael is carried forward into this bottle. The wonderful hue of the coral has been long awaited in the system of Aura-Soma and its birth is warmly welcomed. Azreal is sometimes called or termed the unnamed archangel. A lot more information will be distributed about the actual understanding of Azreal over the next few months.

This afternoon, he wants very much for his energy to be revealed and seen as it is, accompanied by the energy of the goddess in its most feminine aspect of receptivity, between the first and second chakras. This is very helpful in relation to the energies that are needed to be balanced and revealed at this point in time. These energies are both to do with the externalisation of the goddess and also the revelation of the goddess within ourselves and the acknowledgement of her.

In a sense it is healing the shocks and the issues of discrimination that are there in racial and genetic lineages. Now there is the opportunity for that understanding and wholeness to come about after what has been a very long sought and difficult journey for many.

Now it is that we come to the understanding of the 105. The 105 is a bottle which can address the shadow within ourselves. This is something that lies inside us unacknowledged, a repression that has been denied, that we said no to. This bottle will give the opportunity for healing, of making whole something from within the shadow, that we may come to new insight and understanding and new bliss of being.

Azreal also brings a sense of understanding of karmic seeds that lie within genetic structures and the sense of the inner unity, the coming together of male and female at deeper levels within the self. At this cellular level you get cellular awareness and cellular consciousness, the consciousness in the state between living and dying, the state between awakened and asleep. Those in-between states are something that this coral energy, the energy of Azreal speaks towards. There is the sense also of a coming of unification within the self. Azreal brings the understanding of that unification of ourselves.

There is certainly grace that comes. There has been here in Tetford a period of about 24 hours of rain which has led up to the birth of Azreal. This was preceded by a period of intense blue skies over a number of days providing a clarity which enabled the coral energy to manifest itself. It then came down in the form of grace in the rain and the area was shrouded in mist in the sort of density that had clouded the consciousness before the birth. We now have the possibility to come to a new understanding of many difficulties in relation to timing and in relation to sequences.

This is a truly joyful and blissful possibility and Azreal brings that towards us at this point in time. It is also to help us to go beyond duality and not fear our sense of separateness as acutely as we have in the past, so that we can see with the eyes of another to better understand their point of view.

The initial thought on Wednesday afternoon, in early March 2006.

With much love, as ever
