

Archangel Daniel

Mid-Tone Royal Blue/Mid-Tone Olive

Born 2.02pm on 14th December 2013

It is said in some texts that Daniel is roughly in his mid-thirties, very tall at around 6.5 feet with bright green eyes and flaxen wavy hair. Daniel's origins are not to be spoken of which is something to do with where he comes from and how, in some way, that is incomprehensible.

Daniel helps us to discriminate between what is real and what is not. This is one of his main purposes. To focus our dreams and intentions in a way that helps us to materialise those intentions and dreams in a very active way without a loss of energy or wasting time.

Daniel also brings a communication that flows easily and without constriction helping to remove difficulties where enthusiasm and quick thinking leads to incomprehensibility. His work with clarity of speech and communication are very important as to how compassion and real feeling may be transmitted. If we find the way to be compassionate towards ourselves then perhaps that compassion can overflow into the world. Daniel is very much to do with aiding us and helping us to be compassionate towards ourselves.

Daniel may help us to be in the right space, just to be ourselves and not to behave differently thus allowing ourselves to be what we are even when a situation or circumstance is very important to us.

Daniel brings a sense of real ease into being where previously there have been certain anxieties then he may help to dissolve those subtle anxieties. Many different situations that relate to legality or matters of justice are also within his remit and his way of being. To translate some of the purposes of Daniel into human activity is very difficult because as an archangel of the transmission of love and all its qualities (which is largely his domain) it is difficult for the human being to understand.

Where there has been injury or where there has been difficulty there is the possibility that whatever created those difficulties can be brought into his grace and his ability to bring peace and well-being. Where we have been unsure about our identity and where that identity is being misplaced or used incorrectly then Daniel helps us to find our identity within the depth of our being.

Daniel's qualities also include truth and harmony. He assists us in seeing circumstances correctly, to see them in a clear light so that we might be able to act most appropriately. Where there has been deception and difficulties in communication he brings clarity, bringing light to hidden manipulations and thus bringing clarity into relationships, a significant aspect of Daniel.

Daniel is a guardian and a protector and a major part of his role is supporting each of our guardian angels in some way. In recent times a large part of what he has been involved with is helping to supervise construction of time travel between galaxies for the transit of archangels from one galaxy to another, even between universes.

Daniel is connected with the Emerald of the Heart and one of his connections is thought to be as part of a group of archangels that are called 'the Emerald Archangels' inspiring holistic and peaceful lifestyle within the human realm in harmony with the being of the earth and the energies of the earth at this point in time.

Daniel has been offering his energies into this bottle marking a new sequence in time. As we know we are beginning a new cycle of time and it is partially why Daniel is manifesting in this bottle at this time. He has been called upon by the Archangel Michael and other archangels including Gabriel to help with the transition that the earth and the human collective is going through at this point in time. Specifically we can think of him in relation to the Emerald of the Heart, the harmony and love generated between the earth's grid system and our own energy system and how that is a relationship at a deep level of love. There is a very strong Venusian connection with Daniel and the association with the reformed forces of the rebellion.

If Daniel occurs in a consultation then be sure that this is an indication that close relationships, marriage or partnership are also his primary concern, clarity in relationship.

In relation to microcosmic being then Daniel also manifests as the possibility of letting go through the breath. To breathe in heavenly love, to breathe in compassion, caring and warmth and to breathe out pain, fear and the hurts and betrayals of the past enables us to find a new sense of clarity. Daniel supports us to find a better way, to not be in a situation where we do not feel the love that is being manifested is the love we need, want or deserve. Daniel is also concerned with the inspiration towards change both within ourselves and also within our relationships in the world.

Archangel Daniel

Second thoughts

Daniel is very helpful to us in discriminating between what we believe we can do and what we can actually do. To be able to bring into being what our true nature or our centre or star wishes to manifest in the world. Royal Blue brings a certain clarity to this and Olive the hope and certainty in the awakening to the real purpose of our intent. We can discover what dreams and aspirations can bring into being.

There is only one other bottle in the whole of the Aura-Soma® range that has a quality in relation to being able to dream effectively. I feel that Daniel is another bottle that brings about this possibility. It brings the possibility, as in Pallas Athena and Aeolus, of working with dreams, to be able to be conscious in the dream state and to be able to work with this possibility in a conscious way.

It also brings the opportunity for us to see and understand all of the characters and all of the different aspects of people that occur in our dreams are just a reflection of our own psyche enabling us to come into clarity about this and the implications of the work with ourselves.

We may also think of Daniel as a source of rejuvenation, a source of stimulation on a different level of cellular regeneration. Belief systems influence the way in which our whole being is translated from our thoughts and through our feelings. If our thoughts and feelings are in belief system that is life negative in whatever form that takes then Daniel may assist us to turn that situation around so that it might become life positive. Part of the cellular regeneration, part of the re-programming of the cellular level is not to be in a belief system that leads us to a non-reparative order within the physical organism.

Belief systems and conditioning are what leads to the destruction or the degeneration at the cellular level. Provided we take in the correct input, the quality of air, the quality of what we are working on in relation to the quality breath, the deepening of the breath in the body and how that comes about, the intake of the right food and the right impressions, all of which influence the overall basis of what we are working on with the possibilities of cellular regeneration.

The mental attitudes, the core belief systems in relation to what creates the responses at a cellular level are also a fundamental part of what influences the way in which the organism responds.

It is also important to note the numerology of the bottle. I think that the cellular level and that possibility that has just been discussed is something which is also emphasised in the triple physical rescue. the three times the physical rescue.

The intensification of the blue between the 1 and the 2 would come in the 111, the first time of the mid-tone royal blue which is half way in the wavelengths or frequencies of light between the blue and the royal blue also brings us to a sense of the throat, the thyroid influences the whole of the energy systems of the body. We can say hypothalamus, pituitary, thyroid and para-thyroid also influence the whole of the endocrine system and the chakras of the body. The way in which this colour combination works in relation to the way it shakes together is a very deep blue/green.

We would think of the whole of the chest and the upper part, the turquoise, the throat have been fundamental in relation to this. On a personal level then the throat chakra has been going through an extra-ordinary time since the birth of this bottle. Even preceding its birth the build up of the energy has been quite significant. We have also got how the triple one, the 1, 1, 1 is emphasizing that physical rescue. The sense of something at a profound level that can be changed or modified at a cellular level and particularly this comes about through changes of attitude and belief systems, the fundamental intent within the being that influences the physicality and how everything we go through, everything we experience is part of the whole of the story of what Daniel has an implication through its numerology, through its connection with the Archangel Raphael. The next step in relation to the journey of the heart is also going to imply a change in the throat and its healing or making whole again. May be the restrictions in communication may be the difficulties in being able to clearly express also go through a fundamental change once we come closer to the heart and how the heart can express itself in the world.

As we come up to the winter solstice the sense of something to do with the Christmas story and the three wise men then another name for Daniel was Beltizar and significant in relation to the whole of the visitation in the Nativity of the Three Wise Men.

Another aspect of the numerology is the three '1s' coming together as a '3', the 3/81 (the return journey of the 3) and we think of that as the link between the two sides of the brain. The path, the connection that joins the left brain and the right brain which also is a reflection of the inner marriage potential within the bottle, the inner alchemy to produce the gold, the opposite of the royal blue on the colour star and how that inner alchemy also is the two sides of the brain, the intuition and the analysis, the wisdom and bliss coming together within the self.

This bottle reflects through the numerology also the 11, a gateway, a doorway. The connection with that point in time, a new beginning in relation to time. It is very accessible to research the 14th December in relation to the Mayen Codices and the code that is encrypted on that particular day, the kin for the day and the understanding of the synchronisation in time is paramount this particular birthday for the Archangel Daniel.

The 1/79, emphasized three times also brings us to a triple emphasis on The Ostrich bottle. It is not a time for us to go within hide or to bury ourselves in any way. It is a time for that insight and bliss that lies within us to be accessible as part of the healing process. Part of the healing process is also to give birth to a new understanding, a new way of listening not only to others but to the still small voice that lies within. Part of the pale or mid-tone olive is also that potential to listen to the awakening of the still small voice within, the greater guide that is within each of us as the inner alchemy takes place so we gain access to the wisdom that lies within.

The other part of the double emphasis on the 11. You can find a 11/1, a physical rescue of the 11, the 11/89 appears with the Archangel Daniel as a gateway taking responsibility in relation to our thoughts and feelings because they create our world are very much a part of the understanding in the first thoughts about Daniel. The sense of actualisation of the intent, the manifestation of the dreams and the wishes is part of what Daniel is here to help us understand or activate within ourselves. 11 is also a kind of a physical healing in relation to the issues of persecution where we have been a victim of our own judgements to ourselves and to let go and forgive is part of the 11/89.

We have mentioned the shift in time in the context of what happens with the synchronisation of the Mayen Calendar, the kin of the day and how Daniel is very specific in his/her timing as an Archangel that is to do with a shift in time, a new beginning in relation to time.

The whole of the principle the earth passing through the galactic centre on 21st December 2012 and where we are now, December 2013, is the birthing of the new time in the same way as to cross the galactic centre was not a particular moment in the sense of the implications of it, it was a whole year and may be the repercussions of that year extending through time either side from early in 21st Century and probably to the middle part of the 21st Century. As an event the ripples of that phenomena which we marked on Shire Farm with the alignment of the planets on 21st December 2012 also different points of activation in relation to the new time are ensuing and coming about. Karmic clearing is still taking place and different patterns emerging as we meet the love within ourselves and so some of the patterns of conditioning in relation to our resistances and what is taking place to this point re-emerge for re-evaluation to see how we are getting on with the clearing process and how that is taking place. Particularly, I think the throat chakra and the blue energy, the two '1s', the physical healing of the 2, the physical healing of the blue/blue. The 2/80, the sense of that breathe in the body, the deepening of the understanding to go beyond the diaphragm to penetrate the area where the breathe needs to be in relation to massage of the organs in the body is another part of the inner request of Daniel that we come to the Star, we come to a deeper understanding of the trust of the Star within ourselves. This also leads us to the unfoldment of the Emerald.

I mentioned in the 'First Thoughts' one of the notions about the Archangel Daniel, he is also an Archangel who belongs to an Order which is the Emerald Archangels.

This was a fresh concept to me that was dropped in from upstairs and its an important part. I will be making further enquiries about this when the time is appropriate as to the context of how these Emerald Archangels are working with us.

This connection between the Star and the Emerald becomes even more emphasised as we trust the Star within, we trust the Star the memory of the first cell within ourselves and in the letting go process so this acts as the fire in the bowl, the crucible which is the alchemical refinement of the gold within ourselves that also brings the possibility of the opening of the Emerald our deep connection with the being of the Earth, the Goddess that lies within. The connection with the 3, the path of Empress so connects us with the Empress in The Tarot is also synonymous with the being Gaia, the being of the Goddess of the Earth. In the awakening of Albion, the awakening of the being in the Earth of Shire Farm we are also making a deep connection with the being of Gaia and microcosmic relationship with her awakening to a new understanding, a new dimension of her beingness in time and space.
