

The central theme of the Aura-Soma colour system training is “The way we do what we do”. How to increase the quality we bring to whatever we do. Quality is also related to awareness or consciousness. The care and attention in what we do is an expression that also is the way we do what we do.

All the courses listed in this diary are, in some way, a means and a way to introduce different aspects of the offering. Principally Dev Aura is dedicated to the expansion of what the Aura-Soma colour system training is and is the present home of this training in the world.

Aura-Soma colour system courses are especially linked to the core and the theme “The way we do what we do”.

Aura-Soma means Light Body Aura - Light Soma - Body

To develop the light body is to identify more with the way we do what we do rather than what we do. Identification as a consequence of conditioned patterns is what is examined in the Aura-Soma colour system courses, that those who attend may come to discover

“Why they are here and what they are here for”

This is also linked to the understanding of colour as a qualitative expression of consciousness. To examine this gives us the chance to shift identification from “What we do” to the “Way we do what we do”.
